TO ANDREW J. DONELSON.¹

¹ Ibid.

Washington, October 27 (?), 1830.

D'r Andrew, on the subject of your note of this morning I will this evening have with you a conversation, and full understanding.

I would wish before your further reply to my answer to your note to have and correct it as it was written in haste with a bad head ache and in the late hours of the night from memory without refering to memorandom for dates, and really not expecting that with you a long written correspondence would be the result.

yours respectfully.
